Now, as we look upon the matter, we have but one course to pursue. We must bend all our energies for the success of the route to Swanton, to which we are honorably committed, as long as the people on that route assist as they are now doing. This was the precise course pursued by St. Johnsbury towards us. As long as they stood engaged to Montpelier, we could not negotiate with them. Such duplicity would have with them. Such duplicity would have been dishonorable and given us but little confidence in the men who could have practiced it. As we need all our strength concentrated upon a single route, it will not do to scatter our forces.

Mode of Preparation.—Buchu, in vacuo. Juniper Berries, by distillation, to form a fine gin. Cu ebs extracted by displacement by liquor obtained from Juniper Berries, containing very little sugar, a small proportion of spirit, and more pulatable than any now in use. The active properties are by this mode extracted.

Buchu, as prepared by Druggists generally, is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits it; fragrance; the action of a fiame destroys this (its active principle), leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredients. The Buchu in my preparation predominates; the smallest quantity of the other ingredients are added, to prevent fermentation; upon inspection, it will be found not to be a Tincture, as made in Pharmacopea, nor it is a Syrup—and therefore can be used in cases where fever or inflammation exists.
